About the Conference:

Statistics has proved to be one of the most important subjects not only within its own core development but also in many other disciplines. It has also become one of the indispensable components in almost every field of research. The major aim of Statistics is to collect quality data and draw conclusions for specified objectives under study. In this context, there is continuous process being developed regarding various techniques of collection and analysis of data as per requirement for a given situation. Further, the development of high speed computers and information technology have also added new dimension while analyzing data and communicating among the concerned stakeholders. Mass data are being produced everyday in different areas of research because of which, the paradigm of statistical analysis has shifted from theory driven statistical technique to data driven statistical technique. Under such scenario, new statistical methods are being developed and being implemented for complex problems whose solutions are too difficult to carry out practically. Keeping in view of this reality, it is very essential to be acquainted with the recent developments and to be familiar with them.

One of the major objectives of this conference is to provide a unique platform for interactions among academia, statisticians, data producers, practitioners, research scientists working in different areas. This conference would be helpful to continue the dialogue among academia, industry and regulatory agencies to explore innovative solutions for statistical challenges and their applications in modern scientific investigations in different areas.

Papers are invited in the following areas:
